Luxury Layover with Fabrice Bejjani

Architect and designer Fabrice Bejjani tells us about his perfect weekend...

I would wake up in...

...Bali in Pemuteran, at the north of the island, in front of the sea.

I would stay at...

...Puri Ganesha: a 3 villas hotel perfectly created for holidays.

Breakfast would be...

...spicy noodles with shrimps and a fresh fruit cocktail...

I would wear...

Day | Swim suit from Robinson Les Bains, Havaianas and Persol glasses.

Evening | Coloured trousers, some Tods and a white shirt.

My travel essentials are...

...my iPod, iPad, and Bose headphones.

I'd listen to...

...Italian vintage music, like Peppino Gagliardi or Luigi Tenco.

I'd visit...

...some local food and craft markets, the islands around and the volcano at 4am!

I'd have lunch at...

...a street food market with some skewers and mango sauce.

I'd have dinner...

...in the villa by the sea with all natural local products.

I'd Buy...

...fabrics and local artcraft.

I'd hang out with...

...my friends.

I'd relax...

...by the private pool, while laying on a sunbed.

I'd drink...

...Aperol spritz with ice cubes.

I'd chat with...

...locals in the market, on the beach and with my friends.

Bali because...

...I fell in love with the island and the people. The scenery is amazing and the beaches too.
